

ABSTRACT

Methods and compositions are provided for detecting biomolecular interactions. The use of labels is not required and the methods can be performed in a 5 high-throughput manner. The invention also provides optical devices useful as narrow band filters.